15-A. Kyoto City Central Wholesale Market, Bldg No. 10,

Dotted with retro architecture, the Tambaguchi area around "Kyoto's kitchen", Municipal Central Wholesale Market N° 1, suffuses an old-time air much appreciated by those in the know. K-NARF will display works on exterior walls of market outbuildings, while installations by Gideon Mendel and Alberto Garcia Alix will occupy the stark interior of the historic ice factory. This unusual new experiment to enliven lesser frequented sections of Kyoto by bringing world-renowned artists to a local market area is part of the daring vision on which KYOTOGRAPHIE was founded.

1.Kyoto Shimbun B1, Former Printing Plant

In November 1915, the Kyoto Shimbun consolidated the entire newspaper production to its Kumiya plant, abandoning its printshop in town. Now, this enormous 1000m² x 10m high space in the basement of the Kyoto Shimbun Bldg will house a giant print installation by Laurent Greenfield. Also on display will be a photo-history of the newspaper works since the construction of the Kyoto Shimbun Bldg in 1975, a revisit to these amazing halls that informed local Kyoto and Shiga readers of the latest events around the world.

9.FUJII DAIMARU BLACK STORAGE

A little off Ayanokoji Street behind Kyoto's hometown fashion-oriented department store FUJII DAIMARU stands a dark facade. Formerly a French apparel boutique, the Fuji Daimaru warehouse was renamed "Black Storage". During the Festival it will host the Stephen Shames exhibition of late-1960s photos of the Black Panther movement.

SPECIAL COLLABORATION

KYOTOGRAPHIE has grown exponentially year on year through corporate support. This year, we are pleased to offer an even more vibrant multifaceted programme thanks to our corporate partners.

Support from our main sponsor BMW Group Japan along with the kind cooperation of CHANEL KK allow us to present the first-ever Jean-Paul Goude solo exhibition in Japan.

Once again this year, BMW is providing BMW i3 electric cars as Festival shuttles to venues around the city, including "art car" design makeovers by exhibiting artists Jean-Paul Goude and Izumi Miyazaki.

Throughout the Festival, all of Kyoto will become a city-wide exhibition.

16 March website renewal

Over the last five Festival years, we have greatly expanded our worldwide network of artists, curators and photo-enthusiasts. As of 16 March, the Festival launches a more comprehensive in-depth website as a platform for global intercommunication through photography. We hope the new site design will afford an exciting online experience on a par with the actual Festival in situ.
